This book would not exist without the support and contributions of many people. Primarily, I'd like to thank all those who let me tap into their brains and shared their experiences: Adam Knight, André Brissette, Andrew Jackman, Aslak Hellesøy, Børge Lotre, Channing Walton, Christian Hassa, Cindy Bartz, Clare McLennan, Damon Morgan, Francesco Rizzi, Gaspar Nagy, Geoff Bache, Hemal Kuntawala, Ian Cooper, Ismo Aro, Jodie Parker, Johannes Link, Jon Neale, Jonas Bandi, Justin Davis, Kumaran Sivapathasuntharam, Lance Walton, Lisa Crispin, Marco Milone, Marta Gonzalez Ferrero, Martin Jackson, Matthew Steer, Mikael Vik, Mike Vogel, Maykel Suarez, Pascal Mestdach, Peter Janssens, Phil Cowans, Pierre Veragen, Rakesh Patel, Rob Park, Scott Berger, Stuart Ervine, Stuart Taylor, Stephen Lloyd, Suzanne Kidwell, Tim Andersen, Tony To, Wes Williams, and Xu Yi. You wrote this book; I just wrote it down.

Elisabeth Hendrickson, David Evans, Matt Wynne, Pekka Klärck, and Ran Nyman generously helped me get in touch with their colleagues, clients, and associates for this research. Adam Geras, Joseph Wilk, Markus Gärtner, Mike Stockdale, Rick Mugridge, Robert Martin, Dan North, Tom Vercauteren, and Tom Roden helped me refine all the ideas and explain them better. The following reviewed the manuscript during development and I thank them for their feedback: Bas Vodde, Craig Smith, Alex Bepple, John Stevenson, Joseph Wilk, Michele Mauro, Oleksandr Alesinskyy, Robert Martin, Robert Wenner, and Saicharan Manga. And special thanks to Rick Mugridge for his final proofread of the manuscript during production.

Jeff Bleiel, June Eding, Linda Recktenwald, Barbara Mirecki, Leslie Haimes, Martin Murtonen, and Mary Piergies from Manning were instrumental in transforming this set of stories into an actual book.

Thanks also go to Craig Larman, Jim Shore, and Harvey Wheaton for taking the time to answer my emails.
